DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of claims 1-9 in the reply filed on 10-06-05 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the search and examination of the entire application could be made without serious burden. This is not found persuasive because the search for the method of assembly requires searching in areas not related to the switch structure.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 4, "splitters blocks" should be corrected as --- splitter blocks ---. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nomura et al. [US 6,577,215] in view of Blanchard et al. [US 5,218,332].

Regarding claims 1 and 3, Nomura et al. disclose an electrical switching device [figure 1] comprising:

- a switching housing [1];
- at least one polar assembly [figure 1a];

- a contact bridge [8a] located within each of the at least one polar assemblies;
- two arc extinguishing splitter blocks [figure 1b] located on each side of the contact bridge [8a] movable along a longitudinal axis; and
- a housing chamber [figure 1b] housing the arc extinguishing blocks.

Nomura et al. disclose everything claimed except the housing chamber being formed of separate housing chambers for the arc extinguishing splitter blocks.

Blanchard et al. discloses a contactor having a separate contact chamber housing with a pair of single molded removable component mounting means therein [figure 1].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the component mounting means for the arc extinguishing splitter blocks of Nomura et al., as suggested by Blanchard et al., in order to facilitate replacement of the arc chutes.

Regarding claim 2, Nomura et al. disclose a partition [1b] between the poles.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Below the signature, there is a rectangular stamp with the text "INTERVIEWED" at the top, "PRINCIPAL" in the center, and "GLEN" at the bottom. The stamp is partially obscured by a large, roughly circular ink mark.
